Invitations are conditions that come up like those that invite us to go Below the Line. Invitations can arrive several times a day in many forms: The weather, somebody laughing at something we say, not finding a seat with friends at the lunch table, doing poorly on a test or assignment, or even parents telling us we can't do something we wanted to do. These are invitations to come Below the Line party.

We need to R.S.V.P to these invitations. We have a choice. We can decide to go to the Below the Line party or not go to the party.
